214. Purposes of the A3

215. Helps to get all A1's required

The Landlord-Tenant Questionnaire has two main purposes:

1. It helps in getting the A1's.

a. It helps you to get all the required A1's. In some cases the landlord will try to include on his A1 information for all his operations, including those of his tenants, renters, and croppers. Also some tenants—especially croppers—will consider their operations as belonging to the landlord. You are required to get an A1 for each tenant, cropper, and renter.

216. Helps prevent duplication and omission

b. It helps to prevent duplication and omission of any of the information. If the landlord includes information on his A1 for his tenants or croppers we will have information reported twice for the part operated by his tenants. On the other hand, the information will not be complete if the tenant or cropper fails to report information because he thinks the landlord should report it on his A1.

217. Provides information for multiple-unit operations

2. It provides statistical information for the overall operations by persons who farm their land with sharecroppers.

218. When to get an A3

Column 11 of Form A2 shows you when you are to get an A3. These instructions indicate you are to get an A3 when--

1. The landlord or landowner operates a farm himself and also has one or more tenants, renters, or croppers.

2. The landlord or landowner does not operate a farm himself, but has two or more tenants, renters, or croppers.

DETAILED INSTRUCTIONS

219. Who gets the A3?

Sometimes the landlord or some of his tenants may live in another enumeration district (ED). In such cases, only one enumerator should get the A3. The following rules tell you whether or not you are to get the A3:

1. If you get an A1 for the landlord, you should also get the A3.
2. If an A1 is not required for the landlord, but he lives in your ED and one or more of his tenants are in your ED, you get the A3.
3. If the landlord lives outside of your ED but all his land is in your ED, you get the A3. Get the information from the landlord if he does not live more than 15 miles away; otherwise, get the information from the tenants, croppers, and renters.
4. If the landlord lives outside of your ED but farms land where he lives, or has tenants where he lives, you do not get the A3.
5. If you have any doubt whether you should get an A3, fill one and explain the situation under Remarks or in the margin of the A3.

220. When to fill the A3

You should fill the A3 before you fill the A1 whenever possible. This method will enable you to copy some of the information from Form A3 onto the A1. In case the tenant rents all the land from one landlord, you may omit asking those questions on the A1 for which you have already obtained the information from the landlord.

221. What to do if A1 is filled before you get A3

If you get an A1 for a tenant before you get an A3 for the landlord, compare all the entries on the A3 with those on the A1 for the tenant. If the tenant does not rent land from anyone else, correct the information on the A1 for the tenant. You must ask the tenant if he owns any land or rents any land from another landlord. If the tenant owns land or rents land from another landlord, then you must ask all questions on the A1.

222. Section I

Notice that the questions in Section I refer to the landlord (or hired manager) and to the total acreage under his control.

223. Section II

You are to ask the landlord the questions in Section II (lines 1 through 10) for each tenant, cropper, and renter.

224. Section III

The questions in Section III are for you to answer. You do not ask the landlord these questions.

225. Section IV

You are to ask the landlord the questions in Section IV (lines 1 through 10) only for those tenants who pay (or receive) a share of the crops as rent for the land they use.

226. Do you get the A1?

To determine the answer to the question in column 4 "Do you get the A1 for him?" refer to column 13 of the A2. You get an A1 if—

1. The tenant lives in your ED.

or

2. The tenant does not live in your ED and does not have agricultural operations where he lives.

You are to visit each tenant for whom you are to fill an A1.

227. What if tenant has moved?

If a tenant, renter, or cropper has moved and the landlord has not yet rented the land to someone else, include the information for the tenant's operations with the home farm (line B).

228. Checking the A3

The entry for column 2 on line C (Section II) must agree with the entry in question 7 of Section I.

229. Checking A3 with A1's

The entries for line B, the home farm, must agree with the corresponding entries on the A1 for the landlord.

230. Fill an A1 for each tenant

Be sure to fill an A1 for each tenant, cropper, and renter who is listed in column 1 when required.

230*a* Line A

Enter the sum of these entries for all tenants on line A. If you fill more than one sheet for a landlord, enter the total for all sheets on sheet 1.

231. Transfer applicable information to A1

You may transfer the applicable information from the A3 to the A1's for the tenants, croppers, and renters listed in column 1.
